RESOURCE SHARING IN MALAYSIA

In Malaysia, resource sharing in library activities on a general level can be traced to the close relationship that exists between the library associations of Malaysia and Singapore. From the 1960s – 80s the work and activities of BILCO (Committee on Bibliographical and Library Cooperation), a joint committee with separate Malaysian and Singapore components have promoted cooperation, especially in bibliographic control of information, among libraries in these countries. PERPUN has accelerated the progress in resource sharing among the national and university libraries of Malaysia.

In cooperative efforts for standardisation, subcommittees were formed, members represented from all types of libraries, to work on several issues and achieve standardisation. Some of the issues resolved were as follows:

- (a) Cataloguing Rules for Malay Names*
- (b) Expansion of the Dewey Decimal Classification System and Library of Congress Subject Headings to include local needs.*
- (c) Classification Scheme for Malaysian Government Documents.*
- (d) Transliteration of Jawi-Rumi.*
- (e) Microfilm of local archives, records and national heritage*

- ABSTRACT
- This paper reports on several initiatives towards formation of public university library consortium in Malaysia. A Committee for Commercial Databases (CCD) was formed in year 2000 as a platform for university libraries to evaluate, select, negotiate and manage the online databases. Complications involved in online databases subscriptions such as merger and takeover of publishers have made PERPUN (Malaysian Standing Conference of National and University Libraries) realized that there is a need for a formal consortium to be formed. In July 2004, CCD on behalf of PERPUN members made several initiatives towards formation of National Consortium of Malaysian Libraries. Proposal paper on the formation of the consortium has been submitted to the Ministry of Education. Even though the proposal has not been approved yet, CCD succeeded in negotiating for subscription of online databases and was able to get financial aid from the Ministry of Education to subscribe several databases since 2003.

TRANSFORMASI

- Rangkaian dan konsortium
  - Penglibatan perpustakaan akademik ketara
  - Perpustakaan lain?
- Perpustakaan perlu melalui proses transformasi secara 360 darjah
- Pengurusan dan kakitangan perpustakaan perlu
  - Lebih memahami konsep rangkaian
  - Lebih memahami konsep konsortium
  - Bergerak sebagai satu kumpulan
  - Perlu mengorbankan masa dan tenaga
  - Perlu mengiktiraf kekuatan ahli dalam rangkaian dan konsortium
  - Perlu mengiktiraf kekurangan dalam organisasi
- Contoh amalan terbaik : ICOLC : International Coalition of Library Consortia

- GEDENSCHRIFT PPM
- Networks and consortia for Malaysian public university libraries : too many or too few?
- Abstract
- Library networks and consortia have been around for quite a while in most countries. These networks and consortia allow libraries to collaborate, share resources, network and generally run activities that would support each other. These entities may be generic or specialised in nature. In Malaysia, there are currently 20 public universities with each supporting a library or a network of libraries. The older academic libraries have been part of a Standing Committee on National and University Libraries since the 1970's. Since then, the academic libraries now have a more structured national and regional library network. This paper will seek to introduce the audience to the various library networks and consortia instituted in Malaysia to support the libraries of the 20 public universities. At the national level, we have the Persatuan Perpustakaan Malaysia (PPM) or Librarians' Association of Malaysia; Persidangan Perpustakaan Universiti dan Negara (PERPUN) or the Standing Committee on National and University Libraries; and Majlis Ketua Pustakawan IPTA or PHEI Chief Librarians' Council. Within these entities, there are numerous committees, groups and special interest groups. At the regional level, there is the ASEAN University Network Interlibrary Online (AUNILO). The newest addition to the family of networks and consortia is the Malaysian Online E-Resources Consortium. Various aspects of these networks will be introduced to the audience with the hope that the conference attendees will understand and can trace the presence of library networks and consortia.
