FOREWORD

In its effort to ensure that the programmes offered by Higher Education Providers (HEPs) in Malaysia meet the acceptable level of quality, the Malaysian Qualifications Agency (MQA) has published numerous quality assurance documents such as the Malaysian Qualifications Framework (MQF), Code of Practice for Programme Accreditation (COPPA), Code of Practice for Institutional Audit (COPIA), Standards, Programme Standards (PS) and Guidelines to Good Practices (GGP). It is imperative that these documents be read together with this PS for the development and delivery of Language programmes in Malaysia.

This PS document outlines sets of characteristics that describe the minimum levels of acceptable practices in the Language programmes based on the quality assurance areas of COPPA 2nd Edition i.e., programme development and delivery, assessment of student learning, student selection and support services, academic staff, educational resources, programme management, and programme monitoring, review and continual quality improvement. Accordingly, the PS covers different levels of standards leading to the award of individual qualifications prescribed in the MQF 2nd Edition, ranging from Certificate (Level 3, MQF) to Doctoral Degree (Level 8, MQF) levels.

This document represents the significant contribution from panel members (as listed in Appendix 1) from both public and private HEPs and industry, in consultation with various HEPs, relevant government and statutory agencies, professional bodies, industry, alumni and students (as listed in Appendix 2) through stakeholders' workshops, online feedback and pilot visits. Hence, the standards developed reflects national and international best practices to ensure Language graduates in Malaysian HEPs are on par with those in other countries.

Having said so, the standards do not attempt to provide specific characteristics for Language programmes, particularly those related to the framing of curricula and provision of educational resources. This PS document encourages diversity, and allows programme providers to be innovative in creating their own niches. HEPs should ensure that they produce graduates that meet the current and future needs of the industry, and at the same time fulfil their obligations to society. Among others, this document includes statements of programme educational objectives and learning outcomes and they are intended to give clarity and are not intended to be adopted in a verbatim manner.

MQA would like to express appreciation to all the panel members, various stakeholders for their valuable input and to all the MQA officers who have contributed to the development of this PS for Language. It is hoped that this PS document is beneficial to different stakeholders for the development of the competencies required in our students, both for job and higher education prospects.

Thank you.

1. INTRODUCTION

This document provides a guideline to Higher Education Providers (HEPs) on the minimum levels of acceptable practices in designing and offering Language programmes at the tertiary and post-secondary levels in Malaysia. The aim of the Programme Standards is to ensure that students are equipped with the necessary knowledge, skills and competencies at the respective levels as prescribed in the Malaysian Qualifications Framework (MQF) to enable them to pursue career opportunities in a variety of jobs that require a high proficiency in the language.

The scope of Language, Linguistics and Literature programmes is broad. It covers a variety of titles which include Modern Languages, Linguistics, Applied Linguistics, Literature, and Translation and Interpreting. The languages include, but not limited, to Bahasa Melayu, English, Chinese, Tamil, Arabic, Iban, Kadazan-Dusun, Javanese and other less widely taught languages. This also includes programmes that do not make explicit reference to particular languages such as European Studies, Asian & Asian Diaspora Studies, Chinese Studies and Japanese Studies.

DRAFT

The scope of this standard covers specialist degree programmes such as English as a Second Language, English for Specific Purposes, Arabic as a Second Language and Arabic for Specific Purposes. A language programme can be combined with another programme to form an inter-disciplinary programme. For language education programmes, the same core contents are to be taken by the students (example Teaching of English as a Second Language (TESL) and Teaching of Arabic as a Second Language).

In any of the areas mentioned above, HEPs are required to refer to the scope of language fields in naming their academic programme.

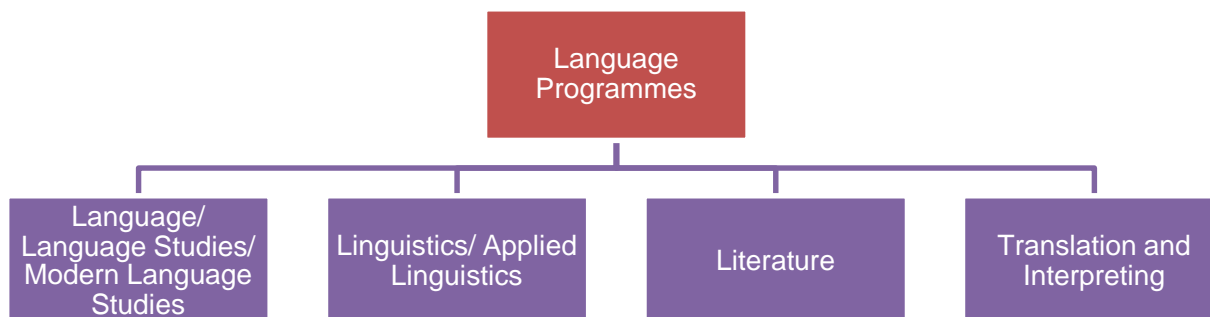

For the purpose of curriculum design, an HEP offering or intending to offer language programmes must therefore position the programmes in one of the following categories:

- i. Language/ Language Studies/ Modern Language Studies: It is designed to equip students with competence in one or more languages and awareness of cultures and understanding of the structure and use of human language. It requires acquisition of demonstrable competence in the target language and grounding in Linguistics. For English language, Bachelor of English implies that it is a literature programme.
- ii. Linguistics: The scientific study of language and its structure which involves studying the patterns in language.
Applied Linguistics: “The academic discipline concerned with the relation of knowledge about language to decision making in the real world” (Cook, 2003; 5). In this document, the programme includes, but not limited to, Teaching of English (or any other language) as a Second Language¹, English (or any other language) for Specific Purposes (ESP) and Area Studies (example European Studies) which involves inter-disciplinary fields.
- iii. Literature: The study of literary texts from various periods of the literary development and in accordance to literary philosophy.
- iv. Translation and Interpreting: The study of cross communication and transfer of meaning between different languages theoretically and practically.

¹ This applies to language-related subjects only

Note that translation and interpreting program is meant for Bachelor's degree and above.

The different language fields are illustrated by the following diagram:

On a wider perspective, this document is equally valuable to a variety of stakeholders such as potential students, parents, guardians, employers, professional and regulatory bodies, HEPs, assessors and auditors, and schools. Hence, their input was sought in the preparation of the standards.

Students following programmes within the parameter of these areas are expected to develop competencies as reflected in the programme educational objectives and programme learning outcomes described in this document. This spectrum of provisions is applicable to a variety of programmes at varying levels, some of which cover a combination of language areas.

SCOPE OF THE PROGRAMME STANDARDS

This Programme Standards covers all the seven quality assurance areas: (i) programme development and delivery, (ii) assessment of students learning, (iii) student selection and services, (iv) academic staff, (v) educational resources, (vi) programme management, and (vii) programme monitoring, review and continual quality improvement. This document describes the different levels of standards leading to the award of individual qualifications prescribed in the MQF based on different modes of study, i.e. Certificate (Level 3, MQF: Coursework only), Diploma (Level 4, MQF: Coursework only), Bachelor's Degree (Level 6, MQF: Coursework only), Postgraduate Certificate and Postgraduate Diploma (Level 7, MQF, Coursework only), Master's Degree (Level 7, MQF: Coursework, Mixed Mode and Research) and Doctoral Degree (Level 8, MQF: Coursework, Mixed Mode and Research).

For the Bachelor's degree level and lower qualifications, reference is made to the existing standards in other areas as well as international standards for language, whilst for Master's and Doctoral degrees; reference is made specifically to the existing MQA Standards: Master's and Doctoral Degree. As part of the process, feedback from stakeholders such as HEPs, employers, academic staff, students and others are sought to ensure that the different needs of various parties are attended to and addressed.

As this document is to be viewed as the minimum requirements, it cannot be viewed as a syllabus and it is not intended to prescribe the amount of time devoted to each area or the order in which the materials are delivered. HEPs are encouraged to go beyond the basic minimum where they should be innovative in terms of customising, organising, delivering and assessing their programmes and specific subject matters to meet the current and future needs of the industry, society and country. Hence, HEPs must take cognisance of the rapidly evolving subject matter and introduce effective and sustainable programme improvements.

OBJECTIVES OF THE STANDARDS

As the purpose of this document is to provide minimum requirements pertaining to the development and conduct of different levels of language programmes within the core areas described, it is paramount that this document be read together with other quality assurance documents and policies issued by MQA and other related agencies which include but are not limited to the following:

1. The Malaysian Qualifications Framework (MQF) 2nd Edition (2018)
2. The Code of Practice for Programme Accreditation (COPPA) 2nd Edition (2017)
3. The Code of Practice for Institutional Audit (COPIA)
4. Relevant Standards
5. Relevant Guidelines to Good Practices (GGP)
6. Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR)

2. PROGRAMME DEVELOPMENT AND DELIVERY

2.1 PROGRAMME EDUCATIONAL OBJECTIVES

The programme educational objectives (PEOs) are described in a broad and general statement of learning and teaching intention, encapsulating the general contents and direction of a programme.

“A programme is designed and delivered to facilitate the attainment of a set of desired learning outcomes. It starts with a clear definition of the intended outcomes that students are to achieve by the end of the programme and supported by appropriate instructional approaches and assessment mechanisms” (COPPA 2nd Edition, 2017).

As indicated in the Introduction, the design of language programmes can be broadly classified into Language/ Language Studies/ Modern Language Studies, Linguistics/ Applied Linguistics, Literature and Translation and Interpreting. These have bearing upon specific programme educational objective (PEO) in the curriculum design.

The PEOs are to produce graduates who:

- i. can communicate effectively;
- ii. are responsible professionals;
- iii. act with a global mind-set; and
- iv. can work collaboratively and independently.

A more detailed description of the PEO is provided under each level of study from certificate to doctoral level. It should be noted that the PEO provided describes the minimum requirement, and the HEPs may provide additional objectives where appropriate.

The PEO of each level of qualification is outlined below.

CERTIFICATE (Level 3, Malaysian Qualifications Framework, MQF)

The PEOs are to produce students who can communicate with basic competency in a language in order to meet specific language needs and activities of the discipline it serves.

DIPLOMA (Level 4, MQF)

The PEOs are to produce students with broad-based knowledge and language competency to perform effectively in the language learnt.

BACHELOR'S DEGREE (Level 6, MQF)

The PEOs are to produce students with in-depth knowledge of the language learnt and are able to communicate effectively and think critically.

MASTER'S DEGREE (Level 7, MQF)

The PEOs are to produce postgraduates with a mastery of knowledge and skills in specific field/fields of study/work, and through research, and/or professional practice are able to use higher order thinking skills to generate new solutions to problems.

Note: Three modes of programme offerings at Master's degree level are via coursework, mixed mode and research. Thus, the programme provides graduates with advanced language skills and knowledge and ability to conduct research and solve problems effectively.

DOCTORAL DEGREE (Level 8, MQF)

The PEOs are to produce postgraduates with advanced knowledge of a language field as required in academic and/or professional practice. The postgraduates can conduct, manage and lead advanced research independently contributing to substantial, new and original knowledge and/or professional practice. They also can present and defend points of views and ideas in area(s) of expertise with sound understanding and confidence.

2.2 LEARNING OUTCOMES

Learning Outcomes (LOs) are detailed statements describing in explicit terms the achievement of learners and that they are to be assessed upon completion of a period of study.

"The quality of a programme is ultimately assessed by the ability of its graduates to carry out their expected roles and responsibilities in society. This requires the programme to have a clear statement of the competencies, that is the practical, intellectual and soft skills that are expected to be achieved by the students at the end of the programme" (COPPA 2nd Edition, 2017).

The learning outcomes in language fields should cumulatively reflect the five domains² of learning outcomes meant to develop well balanced individuals with a holistic set of competencies.

The five clusters of learning outcomes are:

- i. Knowledge and Understanding;
- ii. Cognitive Skills;
- iii. Functional Work Skills with a focus on:
 - a. Practical Skills
 - b. Interpersonal Skills
 - c. Communication Skills
 - d. Digital Skills
 - e. Numeracy Skills
 - f. Leadership, Autonomy and Responsibility
- iv. Personal and Entrepreneurial Skills; and
- v. Ethics and Professionalism.

² Malaysian Qualifications Agency. (2017). Malaysian Qualifications Framework 2nd Edition. Petaling Jaya, Malaysia.

The mappings of learning outcomes for language fields against the five domains of the MQF are shown in Table 1. The flexibility in describing the learning outcomes remains with the Higher Education Providers (HEPs) as long as they are sufficiently covered.

2.3 CURRICULUM DESIGN AND DELIVERY

For the purpose of the Programme Standards, reference is made to the Code of Practice for Programme Accreditation (COPPA) and in particular, the section on Area 1: Programme Development and Delivery.

The term ‘programme development and delivery’ is used interchangeably with the term ‘curriculum design and delivery’. This area is best read together with the Guidelines to Good Practices: Curriculum Design and Delivery which is available on the MQA Portal: www.mqa.gov.my” (COPPA 2nd Edition, 2017).

This section of the Programme Standards contains statements pertaining to the structure and delivery of a programme within the language fields that are:

- i. Language/ Language Studies/ Modern Language Studies
- ii. Linguistics/ Applied Linguistics
- iii. Literature
- iv. Translation and Interpreting

This document also contains the matrices for graduating credits and percentage of components for all levels of qualifications. Specific requirements as to the body of knowledge of the various core areas are provided in Appendix 3. Higher Education Providers (HEPs) are given the flexibility to design their own programme. However, they are expected to cover the body of knowledge indicated in this document.

In addition, HEPs are encouraged to develop their programmes to reflect the current best practices and to offer a high quality academic programme. Language programmes may vary in its nomenclature, however, the programme nomenclature must reflect the content of the programme as mentioned in the Policy on Nomenclature of Malaysian Higher Education Programme, 2018. Examples are provided for each level in Appendix 4.

3. ASSESSMENT OF STUDENT LEARNING

“Assessment of student learning is a key aspect of quality assurance and it is one of the most important measures to show the achievement of learning outcomes. Hence, it is crucial that an appropriate assessment method and mechanism is in place. Qualifications are awarded based on the results of the assessment. The methods of student assessment must be clear, consistent, effective, reliable and in line with current practices. They must clearly measure the achievement of the intended learning outcomes” (COPPA 2nd Edition, 2017).

The method of assessment depends on the specific requirements of each module. However, as a general guide, the following are to be considered:

- i. Assessment for learning (formative assessment);
- ii. Assessment as learning; and
- iii. Assessment of learning (summative assessment).

Assessment must include both written and spoken modes.

Page 24 illustrates the different types of assessments that can be applied for each module. Higher Education Providers (HEPs) are encouraged to use a variety of appropriate methods and tools to meet the learning outcomes and to achieve the intended competencies.

Suggested forms of assessment:

- presentations and conversations
- participation in face-to-face and/or online discussions
- book/ article reviews
- listening comprehension tests
- transcription and dictation
- interpreting between speakers of the source and target languages
- grammar tests
- summarising and reading for gist or inference
- paraphrasing
- translation from and into the target language(s)
- essays and/or extended projects written in the target language(s)
- report writing based on target language texts or recordings
- linguistic commentaries
- drafting target language texts for a defined audience and purpose
- computer-based and online testing
- portfolios of evidence
- participation in individual and/or group projects
- contributions to participation in social media.
- research paper
- innovative product
- speakers' corner
- open book exam
- reflective journal
- peer assessment
- case study

Language graduates are expected to demonstrate the ability to communicate in the language that they are learning. As the programme aims to enhance a variety of knowledge and skills, the assessment can be made up of a range of methods that lead to the achievement of communicative language competence as stipulated in the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR), and knowledge and competency in the programme taken.

Assessment method to be adopted would depend on the following:

- the level of the course.
- the nature of the language(s) studied.
- the purpose for which the language(s) is being studied.
- the student's level of proficiency at the beginning of the programme.

Candidates should pass BOTH formative (continuous) and summative (final) assessment for every subject. HEPs can define the meaning of pass, however a pass should imply that the examiner must be satisfied that the candidate has met all the learning outcomes of the particular subject.

A variety of strategies can be adopted in assessing linguistics, literature, language studies, translation and interpreting courses. The percentage of final assessment may vary from 0-50% depending on the learning outcomes of the course. The breakdown of percentage is as follows:

Table 3.1 Percentage of assessment component for each MQF level

QUALIFICATIONS	MODULES
	CONTINUOUS ASSESSMENT (%)	FINAL ASSESSMENT (%)
Certificate	50 – 60	40 - 50
Diploma	50 – 60	40 - 50

- ii. The examiners should be from the relevant field of studies.
 - iii. HEPs should have a clear policy on the appointment of external and internal examiners.

4. STUDENT SELECTION

This section of the Programme Standards concerns the recruitment of students into the individual programme of study. Language should be one of the main criteria in admitting a student into a language programme.

“In general, admission to a programme needs to comply with the prevailing policies of the Ministry of Education (MOE). There are varying views on the best method of student selection. Whatever the method used, the HEP must be able to defend the consistency of the method it utilises. The number of students to be admitted to a programme is determined by the capacity of the HEP and the number of qualified applicants. HEP admission and retention policies must not be compromised for the sole purpose of maintaining a desired enrolment. If an HEP operates geographically separated campuses or if the programme is a collaborative one, the selection and assignment of all students must be consistent with national policies” (COPPA 2nd Edition, 2017).

The standards for the recruitment of students are formulated with the generic National Higher Education policies pertaining to minimum student entry requirements in mind. The Higher Education Provider (HEP) must take cognisance of any specific policies that may apply to their individual institution.

5. ACADEMIC STAFF

“As the quality of the academic staff is one of the most important components in assuring the quality of higher education, an HEP is expected to search for and appoint the best-suited candidates, to serve its programmes, in an open, transparent and fair manner. To achieve this, HEPs are expected to design and implement an academic staff search and recruitment practice that is as efficient as it is effective to achieve the desired results. It is important that every programme has appropriately qualified and sufficient number of academic staff, working in a conducive environment that attracts talented individuals. The numbers recruited have to be adequate for, and appropriate to, the needs of the programmes. The role of the academic staff in various activities has to be clarified in order to reflect a fair distribution of responsibilities. It is important for the HEP to provide a continuous staff development programme for its academic staff, for them to be current in their knowledge and skills, both in their chosen discipline as well as in their pedagogical skills” (COPPA 2nd Edition, 2017).

The principal supervisor can ideally have a maximum of 10 supervisees at a time. This is inclusive of Master's and Doctoral degree students. This requirement does not apply to the supervision of project paper with 6 or less credit hours.

Staff Development

In order to deliver quality programmes and to produce graduates who are marketable, quality academic staff would need to be employed. Hence, HEPs must ensure that the academic qualifications of their academics must be accredited from the relevant accreditation bodies. Hiring those with certain years of working experience would also be an advantage to the HEPs to give them greater visibility. Likewise, HEPs must assist the academics to thrive and reach their full potentials by providing rich learning and development opportunities. Therefore, the academics need to be provided with professional development opportunities to support their expertise and skills in the current teaching, learning, assessment and research practices. In addition, the academics should strongly be encouraged to pursue a higher academic degree or professional certifications. Although HEPs may plan custom training sessions for the staff based on demand, it is expected that academics engage in the Continuous Professional Development (CPD)^{} according to the specialisation needs with at least 40 hours of relevant training per year or participation or involvement in their respective field of expertise inclusive of research, consultation and community service involvement.

Academic staff exchange and participation in industry attachment should be highly advocated by HEPs in order for their academics to get acquainted with different work settings, allowing for mentoring junior scholars and researchers and work with colleagues within the same, similar or even different research disciplines, consequently building stronger and wider professional networks. Additionally, this may lead to broadening of the multi-disciplinary horizons at the HEPs.

^{}Note:

- a. CPD may constitute presentation and participation in professional conferences, recognised academics/ professional qualifications, self-directed study, coaching/ mentoring/ tutoring and involvement in professional associations.
- b. Part-time and/ or contract staff should also be considered in the professional development programmes.

6. EDUCATIONAL RESOURCES

“Adequate educational resources are necessary to support the teaching and learning activities of a programme. These include all the required academic and instructional expertise, physical facilities, information and communication technologies, research facilities, and finance” (COPPA 2nd Edition, 2017).

Higher Education Providers (HEPs) are required to provide sufficient resources to support teaching and learning in the various areas of language at various qualification levels. HEPs must ensure that relevant educational resources and training facilities are available to support the learning and teaching activities as required by the respective areas of study. Educational resources recommended for language programmes include:

- i. Adequate financial resources.
- ii. Sufficient qualified experts in various fields.
- iii. Adequate provision of administrative support.
- iv. Technical support/ facilities.
- v. Internet access.
- vi. Lecture rooms (with sufficient Audio Visual facilities).
- vii. Library/resource centre (including on-line resources).
- viii. Working space/ station (with access to Internet).
- ix. Language laboratory/ web based language learning resources.
- x. Sufficient access to relevant software according to the needs of the programmes and students.
- xi. Relevant online databases, online journals, statistical packages, qualitative analysis software, and citation and referencing software.

7. PROGRAMME MANAGEMENT

“There are many ways of administering an educational institution and the methods of management differ between Higher Education Providers (HEPs). Nevertheless, governance that reflects the collective leadership of an academic organisation must emphasise excellence and scholarship. At the departmental level, it is crucial that the leadership provides clear guidelines and direction, builds relationships amongst the different constituents based on collegiality and transparency, manages finances and other resources with accountability, forges partnership with significant stakeholders in educational delivery, research and consultancy, and dedicates itself to academic and scholarly endeavours. Whilst formalised arrangements can protect these relationships, they are best developed by a culture of reciprocity, mutuality and open communication” (COPPA 2nd Edition, 2017).

This document will not raise issues pertaining to governance and administration as these are at the institutional rather than at the programme level. In this programme, academic leadership is largely focused on suitable qualified person in language field to lead the programme. The leaders of the programme should demonstrate knowledge of the field and the attributes of good ethical values in work practices.

The leadership requirement of this document is complementary to Area 6 in the COPPA document. Thus, the selection of programme leadership positions (e.g. Dean of Language Faculty, Head of Language Department, Head of Language Programme, Language Student Advisor or Coordinator of Language Units) offered at different levels in the HEPs should fulfil the following qualifications and experience:

8. PROGRAMME MONITORING, REVIEW AND CONTINUAL QUALITY IMPROVEMENT

“Quality enhancement calls for programmes to be regularly monitored, reviewed and evaluated. These include the responsibility of the department to monitor, review and evaluate the structures and processes, curriculum components as well as student progress, employability and performance.

Feedback from multiple sources -- students, alumni, academic staff, employers, professional bodies and informed citizens -- assists in enhancing the quality of the programme. Feedback can also be obtained from an analysis of student performance and from longitudinal studies.

Measures of student performance would include the average study duration, assessment scores, passing rate at examinations, success and dropout rates, students’ and alumni’ reports about their learning experience, as well as time spent by students in areas of special interest. Evaluation of student performance in examinations can reveal very useful information. For example, if student selection has been correctly done, a high failure rate in a programme indicates something amiss in the curriculum content, teaching-learning activities or assessment system. The programme committees need to monitor the performance rate in each course and investigate if the rate is too high or too low.

Student feedback, for example through questionnaires and representation in programme committees, is useful for identifying specific problems and for continual improvement of the programme.

One method to evaluate programme effectiveness is a longitudinal study of the graduates. The department should have mechanisms for monitoring the performance of its graduates and for obtaining the perceptions of society and employers on the strengths and weaknesses of the graduates and to respond appropriately” (COPPA 2nd Edition, 2017).

Higher Education Providers (HEPs) are also advised to refer to the Guidelines to Good Practices: Monitoring, Reviewing and Continually Improving Institutional Quality.

“Comprehensive monitoring and review of the programme for its improvement is to be carried out with a proper mechanism, considering feedback from various parties. The committee responsible for this should be granted adequate autonomy to carry out its responsibility effectively. It is desirable that the departments work in association with the HEP’s central Quality Assurance Unit to ensure objectivity” (COPPA 2nd Edition, 2017).

The HEPs are expected to provide evidence of their ability to keep pace with changes in the field of languages and the requirements of the stakeholders. These may be demonstrated by, but are not limited, to the following:

- i. The department must have a Quality Assurance (QA) unit for internal quality assurance of the department to work hand-in-hand with the QA unit of the HEP.
- ii. A comprehensive curriculum review should be conducted at least once every 2 to 5 years. However, updating the curriculum to keep pace with current developments should be conducted at a more regular interval.

- iii. Compulsory appointment of external advisor(s) who are qualified in the relevant fields to provide assurance of quality for Bachelor's degree (Level 6, MQF) and above.
- iv. Continual benchmarking against top universities at national and international levels.
- v. Linkages with related professional bodies, government agencies and industry.
- vi. Engagement with industry practitioners through appointment as a member of Board of Studies, appointment of adjunct positions, guest speakers, etc.
- vii. Dialogue sessions with stakeholders at least once every 2 years.
- viii. Active participation of academic staff at relevant conferences, seminars, workshops and short courses.
- ix. Presentations by invited speakers, local or international.
- x. Organising conferences, seminars and workshops.
- xi. Encouraging international exchange amongst students and staff.

CEFR Common Reference Levels (Global scale)

Proficient User	C2	Can understand with ease virtually everything heard or read. Can summarise information from different spoken and written sources, reconstructing arguments and accounts in a coherent presentation. Can express him/ herself spontaneously, very fluently and precisely, differentiating finer shades of meaning even in more complex situations.
	C1	Can understand a wide range of demanding, longer texts, and recognise implicit meaning. Can express him/ herself fluently and spontaneously without much obvious searching for expressions. Can use language flexibly and effectively for social, academic and professional purposes. Can produce clear, well-structured, detailed text on complex subjects, showing controlled use of organisational patterns, connectors and cohesive devices.
Independent User	B2	Can understand the main ideas of complex text on both concrete and abstract topics, including technical discussions in his/ her field of specialisation. Can interact with a degree of fluency and spontaneity that makes regular interaction with native speakers quite possible without strain for either party. Can produce clear, detailed text on a wide range of subjects and explain a viewpoint on a topical issue giving the advantages and disadvantages of various options.
	B1	Can understand the main points of clear standard input on familiar matters regularly encountered in work, school, leisure, etc. Can deal with most situations likely to arise whilst travelling in an area where the language is spoken. Can produce simple connected text on topics, which are familiar, or of personal interest. Can describe experiences and events, dreams, hopes & ambitions and briefly give reasons and explanations for opinions and plans.
Basic User	A2	Can understand sentences and frequently used expressions related to areas of most immediate relevance (e.g. very basic personal and family information, shopping, local geography, employment). Can communicate in simple and routine tasks requiring a simple and direct exchange of information on familiar and routine matters. Can describe in simple terms aspects of his/ her background, immediate environment and matters in areas of immediate need.
	A1	Can understand and use familiar everyday expressions and very basic phrases aimed at the satisfaction of needs of a concrete type. Can introduce him/ herself and others and can ask and answer questions about personal details such as where he/she lives, people he/she knows and things he/she has. Can interact in a simple way provided the other person talks slowly and clearly and is prepared to help.

Overall Listening Comprehension

C2	Has no difficulty in understanding any kind of spoken language, whether live or broadcast, delivered at fast native speed
C1	Can understand enough to follow extended speech on abstract and complex topics beyond his/her own field, though he/she may need to confirm occasional details, especially if the accent is unfamiliar. Can recognise a wide range of idiomatic expressions and colloquialisms, appreciating register shifts. Can follow extended speech even when it is not clearly structured and when relationships are only implied and not signalled explicitly.
B2	Can understand standard spoken language, live or broadcast, on both familiar and unfamiliar topics normally encountered in personal, social, academic or vocational life. Only extreme background noise, inadequate discourse structure and/or idiomatic usage influence the ability to understand. Can understand the main ideas of propositionally and linguistically complex speech on both concrete and abstract topics delivered in a standard dialect, including technical discussions in his/her field of specialisation. Can follow extended speech and complex lines of argument provided the topic is reasonably familiar, and the direction of the talk is sign-posted by explicit markers.
B1	Can understand straightforward factual information about common every day or job related topics, identifying both general messages and specific details, provided speech is clearly articulated in a generally familiar accent. Can understand the main points of clear standard speech on familiar matters regularly encountered in work, school, leisure etc., including short narratives.
A2	Can understand enough to be able to meet needs of a concrete type provided speech is clearly and slowly articulated. Can understand phrases and expressions related to areas of most immediate priority (e.g. very basic personal and family information, shopping, local geography, employment) provided speech is clearly and slowly articulated.
A1	Can follow speech that is very slow and carefully articulated, with long pauses for him/her to assimilate meaning.

Overall Reading Comprehension

C2	Can understand and interpret critically virtually all forms of the written language including abstract, structurally complex, or highly colloquial literary and non-literary writings. Can understand a wide range of long and complex texts, appreciating subtle distinctions of style and implicit as well as explicit meaning.
C1	Can understand in detail lengthy, complex texts, whether or not they relate to his/her own area of speciality, provided he/she can reread difficult sections.

B2	Can read with a large degree of independence, adapting style and speed of reading to different texts and purposes, and using appropriate reference sources selectively. Has a broad active reading vocabulary, but may experience some difficulty with low-frequency idioms.
B1	Can read straightforward factual texts on subjects related to his/her field and interest with a satisfactory level of comprehension.
A2	Can understand short, simple texts on familiar matters of a concrete type which consist of high frequency everyday or job-related language
	Can understand short, simple texts containing the highest frequency vocabulary, including a proportion of shared international vocabulary items.
A1	Can understand very short, simple texts a single phrase at a time, picking up familiar names, words and basic phrases and rereading as required.

Overall Spoken Interaction

C2	Has a good command of idiomatic expressions and colloquialisms with awareness of connotative levels of meaning. Can convey finer shades of meaning precisely by using, with reasonable accuracy, a wide range of modification devices. Can backtrack and restructure around a difficulty so smoothly the interlocutor is hardly aware of it.
C1	Can express him/herself fluently and spontaneously, almost effortlessly. Has a good command of a broad lexical repertoire allowing gaps to be readily overcome with circumlocutions. There is little obvious searching for expressions or avoidance strategies; only a conceptually difficult subject can hinder a natural, smooth flow of language.
B2	Can use the language fluently, accurately and effectively on a wide range of general, academic, vocational or leisure topics, marking clearly the relationships between ideas. Can communicate spontaneously with good grammatical control without much sign of having to restrict what he/she wants to say, adopting a level of formality appropriate to the circumstances.
	Can interact with a degree of fluency and spontaneity that makes regular interaction, and sustained relationships with native speakers quite possible without imposing strain on either party. Can highlight the personal significance of events and experiences, account for and sustain views clearly by providing relevant explanations and arguments.
B1	Can communicate with some confidence on familiar routine and non-routine matters related to his/her interests and professional field. Can exchange, check and confirm information, deal with less routine situations and explain why something is a problem. Can express thoughts on more abstract, cultural topics such as films, books, music etc.
	Can exploit a wide range of simple language to deal with most situations likely to arise whilst travelling. Can enter unprepared into conversation of familiar topics, express personal opinions and exchange information on topics that are familiar, of personal interest or pertinent to everyday life (e.g. family, hobbies, work, travel and current events).

A2	Can interact with reasonable ease in structured situations and short conversations, provided the other person helps if necessary. Can manage simple, routine exchanges without undue effort; can ask and answer questions and exchange ideas and information on familiar topics in predictable everyday situations.
	Can communicate in simple and routine tasks requiring a simple and direct exchange of information on familiar and routine matters to do with work and free time. Can handle very short social exchanges but is rarely able to understand enough to keep conversation going of his/her own accord.
A1	Can interact in a simple way but communication is totally dependent on repetition at a slower rate of speech, rephrasing and repair. Can ask and answer simple questions, initiate and respond to simple statements in areas of immediate need or on very familiar topics.

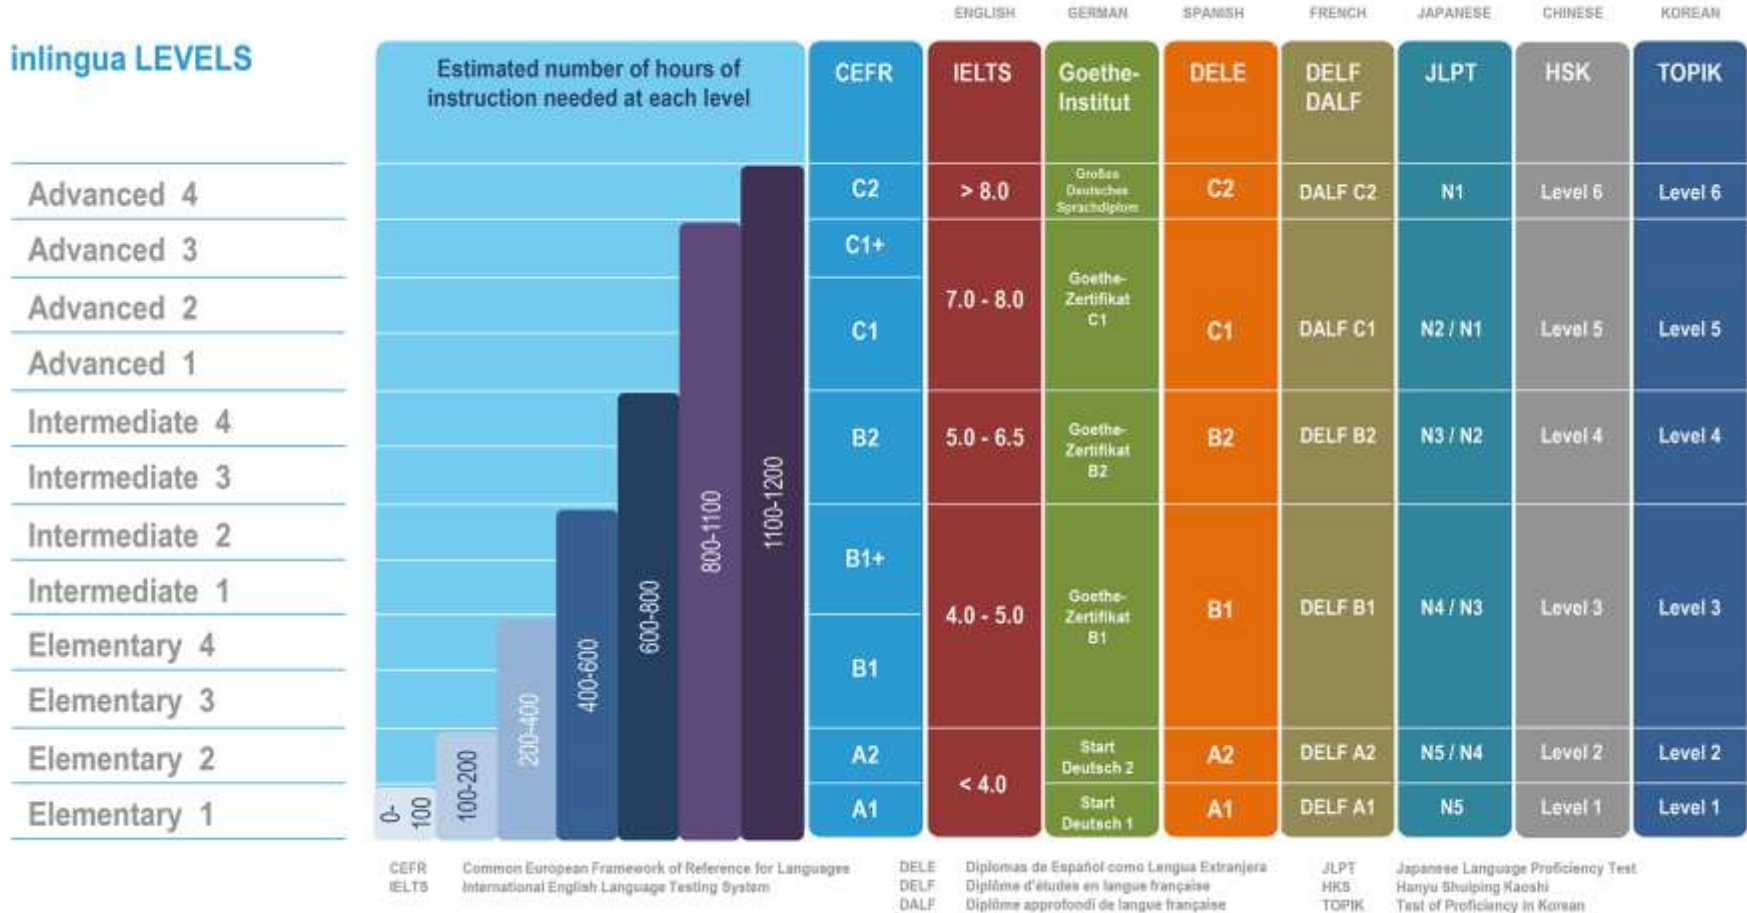

Overall Written Interaction

C2	No descriptor available
C1	Can express him/herself with clarity and precision, relating to the addressee flexibly and effectively.
B2	Can express news and views effectively in writing, and relate to those of others.
B1	Can convey information and ideas on abstract as well as concrete topics, check information and ask about or explain problems with reasonable precision.
	Can write personal letters and notes asking for or conveying simple information of immediate relevance, getting across the point he/she feels to be important
A2	Can write short, simple formulaic notes relating to matters in areas of immediate need.
A1	Can ask for or pass on personal details in written form
