UNIMAS to hold First MSc Learning Sciences Colloquium

KOTA SAMARAHAN: The Faculty of Cognitive Science and Human Development (UNIMAS) will hold the first ever MSc Learning Sciences colloquium on 18 May 2013 (Saturday) at the Centre for Academic Information Service (CAIS) Auditorium, UNIMAS.

UNIMAS is currently the first university in Malaysia to offer Masters in Learning Sciences as part of their postgraduate programmes and the colloquium will be introduced to the public on the diversity of the field of learning sciences.

The event will also serve as a platform to discuss the latest developments, matters of interest as well as new concentrations in the field of Learning Science.

Themed 'Rethinking Learning', the colloquium will showcase the work of students currently undergoing the Masters programme in Learning Sciences.

The highlight of the event will be the series of presentations by the first cohort of the programme as they present their literature review papers to a panel comprising lecturers from the faculty and invited guests at the CAIS Auditorium.

Officiating the event is keynote speaker, Prof. Tan Sri Dzulkipli Abdul Razak, Vice Chancellor of Albukhary International University.

The colloquium is open to members of the public and those interested in attending can visit the colloquium website at <http://lscolloquium.weebly.com/> for more information. Alternatively, inquiries can be made at lscolloquium2013@gmail.com.
